Strong Letter from Secretary Sherman

Chicago, Sept. 21 —The following letter was received here to day by Thos M Nichols, secretary of the honest money league, in an answer to one addressed by him to Secretary Sherman regarding recent reports about a change of his views on the policy of resumption. It is the most emphatic declaration on the subject which has come from any of the heads of the departments in Washington

Washington Sept, 19, 1877

Dear Sir, Your letter of the 16th inst. is received I have no wonder if in the face of such stories as have been sent over the wires you are distracted and confounded but there is not a word of truth in the whole story you mention. Nobody here has proposed to recede from the position we have taken on the resumption act, its feasibility and advisability, no member of the cabinet has proposed a change, nor has the president been consulted, nor has any one even thought of such a thing. The whole thing was a malicious and outrageous fabrication The change in the mode of paying out silver dollars is the pretext, but the real object seems to me simply a desire by newspaper correspondents to create a sensation They have falsified and perverted an interview I had with a Republican editor I think the correction has already been made, or will be made clear within a day or two. Go on therefore with courage and hope. Be certain there will be no letting down of the executive branch of the government as to resumption on the first day of January next Very truly yours,

JOHN SHERMAN

To the Voters of Massachusetts.

New York, Sept. 21 —The Tribune's Boston special gives a ringing address to be issued to-day by the Republican state committee to the people of Massachusetts, setting forth in ringing terms the features of the campaign which make it peculiar and noteworthy Following are the principal clauses

There is no issue between good men of all parties as to the necessity of economy in state expenditure or the liquidation and gradual reduction of the public debt. Unquestionably the great apparent prosperity of the past years led the commonwealth as it did individuals, into too lavish expenditure in enterprises of business, of education and of charity Large reductions in the state expenditures have already been made with the aid of the good men of all parties and still further reductions will be made under the same auspices. It has not been reserved for any bold, unscrupulous demagogue to make the discovery that the times have changed, and that an era of economy and retrenchment has begun nor will the validity of his alleged patent for that discovery be recognized by thoughtful and honest men Our present business is to state the truth regarding the issue pending before the people of Massachusetts stripping the veil of pretence by which an unscrupulous and selfish ambition has sought to obscure it. Shall Massachusetts be true to the faith of the fathers, that honest debt shall have honest payment? that honest currency is based on value and not on fiat? and that at any cost or sacrifice her national honor shall be maintained untarnished? Or shall she be bound hand and foot and delivered over to the champions of dishonor and disgrace? Shall she suffer the chief head and front of this offending principle to occupy the seat of Hancock and Andrews, making of its distinction a stepping stone to leadership of a national party founded on the ruins of a national credit, the public faith a debased currency and a repudiated debt? This plot we shall expose this autumnal issue we shall discuss before the people of this commonwealth We will not suffer it to be disguised or shuffled out of sight. To a calm and honest consideration of this issue we invoke the conscience and intelligence of Massachusetts We call upon the workingman and the capitalist alike whose material interest at stake the one holds equally with the other, to aid to maintain the standard of value in our currency on a par with that of all the world. We invoke all christian citizens to proclaim that the salvation of commonwealths, as of individuals, rests in conscience and unwavering adherence to everlasting principles of honor and truth and the conscience and intelligence of Massachusetts will not fail us

More of Gambetta's Speech

Paris Sept 20 —Following is the text of a portion of Gambetta's speech at Rouen on Wednesday against ultramontanists

The clerical question, that is to say the question of relations between church and state, keeps all other questions in suspense here. It is that spirit of the church which takes refuge and gathers strength that I denounce An ever increasing danger to society runs from the ultramontane spirit—the spirit of the Vatican and of the syllabus which is nothing but abuse of ignorance with the purpose of enslaving it I have spoken of the relations between church and state I am perfectly aware that to be correct I should have said the relations between the churches and state but from a governmental and national point of view it is only ultramontanism which persists in opposition to the state The clerical spirit endeavors to filtrate into everything—into the army, into magistracy—and there is this that is peculiar It is always when the fortune of the country is falling that Jesuitism rises Far be it from me to wish to put shackles on liberty. I am an obstinate partisan of the liberty of conscience but ministers of religion have duties to the state, and what we exact is fulfillment of these duties and to apply the laws all the laws, and then abolish indulgences If law is applied order will be restored in France without persecution by simply continuing traditions which prevailed

London, Sept. 21 —A correspondent at Paris telegraphs Notwithstanding the approbation Gambetta's speech at Rouen on Wednesday met with on the part of the republican press it has made moderate republicans uneasy It is not thought the programme will contribute to the success of the senatorial elections for it opens up a field to discussions in which adversaries of the republic will find it easy to exaggerate the orator's words and show that the republic proposes to lay hands on every existing institution in a revolutionary sense I heard the speech objected to by men who are neither clerical nor monarchists nor Bonapartists who regret that Gambetta has formed a programme the smallest fault of which is inopportune

The Busy Vatican.

Rome Sept 21 —The Vatican has decided to instruct the French bishops to spare no effort to counteract the effects of Gambetta's speech

The German Government and the Socialists.

Berlin Sept 21 —The parliamentary committee on the anti socialist bill have adopted by a vote of 13 to 8 the amendment proposed by Herr Lasker that socialist societies coming under prohibition are such as endanger public peace The paragraph relative to the administration of socialist funds by the authorities was adopted The National Liberals and Conservatives voted against the Ultramontanes and Progressists. Count Von Eulenberg minister of the interior, during the discussion expressed he hope that an agreement would be reached on the basis of the proposals of Herr Lasker

Berlin Sept 21 —The parliamentary committee on the anti socialist bill has passed in amended form the clause of the bill which was rejected yesterday The clause prohibits socialistic writings tending to endanger the public peace or concord among various classes

The British Sick List in Cyprus

Extreme Measures Contemplated.

Rome Sept. 21 —Cardinal Nina papal secretary of state has sent a circular to nuncios asking them to ascertain how their respective governments would view extreme measures which the Vatican may possibly be obliged to take to preserve the authority of the pope against the hostile attitude of Italy which is chiefly observable in the exercise of the royal prerogative relative to the nomination of bishops

WASHINGTON CITY.

Bits and Scraps of News.

Washington Sept. 21 —District commissioners this morning received from the ordnance department 200 army breech loading revolvers and 500 cartridges, and they were distributed among policemen

The treasury yesterday disbursed 76 000 silver dollars Since the recent order of Secretary Sherman revoking the order for general issue of that coin for greenbacks, the daily issue has been about $50 000

The minister from China to day formally advised the secretary of state of his arrival and requested him to confer with the president so as to designate a time for presentation of his credentials

Dr. T S. Scales, health officer reports five cases of yellow fever on hand, and five deaths to date.

Senator Kellogg and Lieut. Kells

The navy department to-day received from Lieut Commander Kells at New Orleans a copy of the open letter recently published which he sent Senator Kellogg The lieutenant commander accompanies the letter with explanatory remarks, denying emphatically that he was intoxicated at the time he wrote it and the charges generally against Senator Kellogg No action will be taken until the return of the secretary from Indiana

A Communistic Mob.

Washington, Sept 21 —Cohen and his followers made several attempts this afternoon to create strikes in the northern part of the city but the police prevented any disorder He started on a general tour with a mob of 100 negroes and visited Hill's Bottom then proceeded to Fourteenth street where a pavement is being laid Cohen addressed the men and about 20 of the 100 employed joined the mob which next proceeded to Seventh st , the mob increasing to about 400 At Seventh and M streets where fifty men are laying pavement, Cohen made another speech and several of the workers fell into line Thus reinforced the mob went off yelling and hooting vigorously until reaching Seventh and P streets where the police charged them! There was a short struggle but the batons of the police triumphed and the mob fled leaving one of their number who had struck an officer in the hands of the police. Cohen abandoned by his allies made for his headquarters New Jersey avenue Additional U S troops have arrived but it is confidently believed the police are equal to any emergency

THE BALLOON SYSTEM OF FINANCE

Butler at Indianapolis

Indianapolis Sept 20 —Gen B F Butler spoke this afternoon at the exposition building for nearly two hours He commenced by saying that the frequency of our elections has a tendency to destroy their value and prevent the proper appreciation of the privilege which was possessed by people of the United States and by no other nation in the world that of choosing their men who should administer the government and determine the nature of our laws In this land the people are sovereign in their own right and it is their will expressed in a constitutional manner which makes the laws and make the officers to execute these laws He wished it understood that he was not one of those who feared the masses of the people He held that the congregated intelligence among the masses is greater than of a few cultivated men nor was he afraid that the masses would do any wrong This country has been under the control of the masses for the last 90 years with some few and rare exceptions and they [illegible] recent date During all that time he undertook to say the people had not been in the wrong to anybody, nor wrong to capital nor wrong to themselves nor wrong to government or in the management of governmental affairs He had great faith in the old Saxon maxim Fair Play and this was the rule which governed the actions of the majority of the people When a few men can congregate together although they be no better and no worse than the rest of the people they are drawn together to look after their own interests and not the interest of the whole country The question therefore is how shall the people act to day? There never was a time when the people were not more free to act than they are now They have two great parties going along upon professed principles which were of importance at one time but have now arrived at a period when other issues sink into lesser importance in view of the one question before the people namely that of finance and it may not be for the interests of the people to be bound up to either of these parties any longer With a view of showing the nature of financial legislation he then referred at great length and with considerable minuteness to the history of the action of the Democratic party and of congress from the days of Monroe and Jackson down to the present time In the course of the resume he declared that the teaching of history in this country and European countries was that an irredeemable currency is more easily kept at par value than a currency redeemable in coin He attempted to establish this assertion by going back to the days of ancient Venice and said 600 years ago she issued a currency not redeemable in anything which remained at par value for more than four centuries not only at par but as high as 120 per cent above gold The continental money with which our soldiers were paid and our liberties were won, was neither more nor less than rag money True the manner of its issuance was a mistake and its form was bad but the continental money did good service It distributed the expenses of the revolution among all the people and eventually wiped itself out of existence without anybody being the loser That was more sensible than the policy of the government with our greenback currency which has resulted in a tax upon ourselves and our children which will not be paid during the next generation Objection is equally urged that the French assignats and mandats were specimens of irredeemable paper money and that such money would have no permanent value, but disturbed the condition of France at the time when assignats were issued This makes the argument and comparison unfair and unjust There was nothing stable about such a currency and under such a condition of affairs because nothing was valuable in France at that time neither life limb nor property Newspapers and some political speakers were he said raising great objection to the phrase "fiat money," but what does fiat money mean? Do the newspapers know what it means? When all was chaos and without form and void and darkness covered the earth as a pall God said these words (which are Latin) Fiat lux let there be light and there was light The morning stars sang together and the earth grew fruitful and happy Fiat money means simply that the United States government should say— Let there be money nothing more nothing less The word fiat is the Latin for "Let there be" He referred at length to his congressional action upon financial questions and claimed he had been consistent. Speaking of the reconstruction of the south he said it had been taken out of the hands of both political parties by President Hayes and must now be left to take care of itself He wished his Republican friends and the newspapers who were saying hard things about him would not allude to anything he did previous to the year 1872 because he was then understood to be a very good man but he had not changed his views He was in early life a Democrat, and a believer in the financial views of Jackson and Jefferson The Democrats at that time were unbelievers in hard money as now understood, and he wished to stand on the old Democratic doctrine that the government should take care of the people of the laboring man and protect him against the greed of capitalists That was the doctrine of the Democrats when Democracy meant something. What is needed now is that the government should make and issue money sufficient to carry on all the necessary public works and complete them quickly and cheaply This would put money in circulation giving all employment and setting the wheels of industry in motion all over the land. These public works would be carried through without any additional burden being placed on the country, for the government would pay out money which it had the power to make and issue to any extent that was found necessary This he believed to be the proper and only way of supplying the people with money Some believed it would not work well, but the country could never be worse off than it was at present, and if the experiment proved a failure, why, then, the next congress could change it again That was the plan they adopted in commercial business. They tried an experiment, and if it failed abandoned it for some other method He asked in view of the failure of the present financial policy that the national theory be put in practice and believed the result would be beneficial

He spoke again to night at Masonic hall going over pretty much the same line of argument

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, SEPT. 23, 1878.

MR. WILLIAMS' SPEECH.

In the next forthcoming double sheet of THE DAILY OREGONIAN we shall print a full report of the speech on the railroad question delivered by Representative Williams at Oro Fino Hall on Saturday night. It is due to our people that the information afforded by this speech should be laid fully before them. The temper and manner of the address were excellent. The speaker had no theories to present and no grievances to obtrude. His purpose simply was to give an account of the proceedings had during the last session on the railroad question. In following out this design he adhered closely to the record, and substantiated by a complete range of testimony all he had to say. Though on nearly all points he traversed Mr. Mitchell's statements and arguments, he did it with entire courtesy. The speech was an exposition by one who had before him full information on the subject of all the inside and outside movements at Washington. It is especially valuable on account of the new light it throws on the causes of delay and final failure. With great clearness and force, though without a single indecorous expression or intimation, the speaker gave a connected account of the unfortunate consequences of Mr. Mitchell's insidious opposition and hostility to the Northern Pacific. We make no further comment till the speech is printed, only adding that Mr. Williams showed his mastery over all the details of the subject, and established his positions at every step by citations from the record.

FIVE HOURS' WORK A DAY.

A tract is published in a workingmen's organization, so-called, in the city of New York, which essays an argument against machinery;—or perhaps we should say a diatribe rather than an argument. The writer insists that the hours of labor ought to be reduced one-half, since the facilities for production in all branches of industry are so greatly extended. What astonishing results this diminished rate of labor is to bring about the philosopher proceeds to tell us. The workingmen's wages are to be trebled, and his powers of consumption are to be trebled with them. This will make manufacturers prosperous, and with an increased demand for their wares, prices will advance. The position simply is that a reduced production would enhance prices and thus afford a higher scale of remuneration to the laborer. This is a very clumsy example of reasoning in a circle. If cost of commodities be higher, increased wages will be required to provide for a family; and the net results to the workingman will be simply nothing. With a low standard of values we can compete with the foreign producer and find a market abroad, which makes work at home; and this accounts for the vast increase of our exports of late. But it has been found by experience that inflation prices shut out our wares from foreign ports, and attract the goods of European producers to our own shores. High prices, as the Chicago Times explains, are detrimental to the workingman's interest, because values are enhanced when scarcity prevails, and the prices of people are always measured by the abundance they enjoy. And according to the measure of nominal values is the burden of expense; rents are higher, the cost of distributing commodities is greater, and there is a greater tendency to extravagance. Expense is the friction which retards the progress of a nation, and expense always settles down on the producing class. Then the workingmen's tract tells us that with high prices the power of consumption will be trebled; whereas enhanced cost checks consumption because of the general inability to buy. If this country is ambitious to gain precedence as a manufacturing nation it must beat its foreign rivals in price; and five hours work a day, while our European rivals give ten or more, would place us hopelessly in the rear of our competitors. Further, we are told that large numbers of our wage class are out of employment. If they really want work they will not stickle about the number of hours they are to be employed. Five hours' labor a day never yet enabled a man or a people to do much of anything, nor ever will.

It is understood that W. S. Chapman wrote, from materials furnished by Mercer, the indecent and defamatory matter concerning Macdonald and his family which was printed here last week. It is well the public should know that Mercer was not alone in working up the provocation that gave opportunity to kill Macdonald. Chapman is an official of the city, employed upon a salary, and as such his services are wholly due to the public in the line of official duty. Yet he employs himself in furnishing matter for a publication which all decent people abhor, and which ever since he began his career with it, has been a moral nuisance and a menace to the public peace. They who may be ambitious to shine in this line of "editorial" achievement may now see to what results it necessarily leads.

President Hayes during his recent western tour went out to Dakota on the Northern Pacific railroad and saw some of the big farms. That of Mr. Dalrymple is among the most notable. The owner has connected the various parts of it with the telephone, so that he can sit at headquarters and direct the work. The reporter saw twenty-five threshers busy in the fields. In one field nine four-horse teams and seventeen two-horse teams were turning under the stubble, preparatory to next year's crop. They follow each other with the precision and step of an army. The plows are of the most modern pattern; the drivers riding comfortably in their easy seats, without a stump or a stone to disturb them. Seven years ago this was all a wilderness.

The coroner's jury unhesitatingly say that the killing of Macdonald was murder. Such also is the universal expression of the community. Every one who speaks of it utters the common opinion that the affair, in all its parts and stages, was worked up with premeditation; that provocation was given and taunts were repeated with deliberate purpose, and that the opportunity to kill was just what was desired. The coroner's jury only voices the general verdict. The district attorney is working with energy, determined to do his whole duty to serve the ends of justice.

It is said that an agreement has been reached by the Multnomah delegation in regard to the bridge bill, to the effect that the bridge shall be located above Morrison street. Provision should also be inserted giving the commissioners of the county the right and power to fix or regulate tolls. Otherwise a troublesome question may some day arise.

The people are aroused. In great numbers they are forbidding the vile, obscene and infamous publication, which for two years has been polluting the moral atmosphere of this city, to be left longer at their doors. A thing of this kind may successfully defy decency for a while, but at last it will inevitably sink in its own rottenness.

In a district school election at New Haven on the 17th, the issue being the re-establishment of devotional exercises in the public schools, the ticket favoring re-establishment was elected by 2,000 majority. The Catholics united with the Protestants to bring about the success of the Bible ticket.

A sawmill capable of cutting 10,000 feet of lumber daily has been built on Rock creek in Stevens county.

Olympia has an amateur minstrel troupe made up of local talent. Unhappy Olympia.

CITY.

SPEAKING LAST SATURDAY.—Hon Richard Williams addressed a large number of citizens of Portland at Oro Fino Hall last Saturday night on the railroad situation. The hall was crowded to overflowing. A large number of ladies were present. Among those who occupied seats on the platform were Mayor Newbury, Hon E D Shattuck, Mr Alex Meyer and other prominent gentlemen. Mr Williams was introduced to the audience by Mayor Newbury and was received with demonstrations of approval. Mr Williams' speech was listened to throughout with close attention and was frequently interrupted with hearty approval. In a few days the speech will appear in full in THE OREGONIAN.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Saturday evening as the north bound train was coming past the carshops the rear drivers of the locomotive, the wheels of the tender and the box car jumped the track. The accident caused about half an hour's detention. Fortunately Roadmaster DeMark happened to be on board the train at the time, and the difficulty was soon overcome. No damage resulted from the accident.

HELD TO ANSWER.—The man John Smith who was arrested for stealing a bundle of blankets from the store of Mr Burchard, had a preliminary examination in police court last Saturday afternoon. The court held the defendant to answer the charge in the sum of $400. Smith failed to give the bonds required and in default was committed to jail.

JEWISH NEW YEAR.—Next Saturday the Jewish new year will commence, and will be observed by our Hebrew population as a season of feasting and rejoicing.

"One more unfortunate rashly importunate"

Coroner [illegible] was notified yesterday morning that the dead body of a man had been found in one of the rooms of the Willamette Hotel, which is located near the Pacific Dock. The coroner proceeded to the place and caused the body to be removed to the morgue. A jury was summoned and an inquest held. The following is the testimony taken at the inquest:

[illegible] Whipple was the first witness called and testified as follows: I never saw deceased until [illegible] yesterday; he came and asked for a bed. I told him he could have one; he [illegible] there and went off, and was probably gone a couple of hours and came back [illegible]; he asked for his bed. I went up and showed it to him and that is the last I saw of him until this morning when he was dead.

Dr [illegible] was sworn and testified: I have examined the body of deceased, in the next room; [illegible] the peculiar appearance of the tongue and mouth, there is no doubt in my mind but that deceased came to his death from narcotic poison, the nature of which I could not state without a post mortem examination. From the general appearances I do not deem the same necessary.

[illegible] Anderson testified: I think I knew the deceased; he belonged to the army and used to [illegible] at headquarters, mostly at Walla Walla. His name in the army was Jackson. I spoke to him [illegible] on Front street, about three months ago. He always seemed to me a sober man and one who minded his own business. I cannot give his age, but think he was about 45 years old; the deceased was of Irish birth.

VERDICT

The following verdict was rendered:

We, the jury find that the deceased was named [illegible] Jackson, late a member of Capt Josselyn's [illegible] 21st infantry and discharged therefrom [illegible] 1878, and that he came to his death from an overdose of narcotic poison, probably morphine, administered by his own hands.

THE PRELIMINARY TRIAL

OF J. K. MERCER FOR THE MURDER OF A. C. MACDONALD.

The preliminary trial of J K Mercer the murderer of Macdonald was announced to take place before Justice R E Bybee at 10 o'clock A. M., Saturday and at that hour the prisoner was brought into court.

A curious crowd followed and the small room was soon fairly choked with people.

Col W H Effinger and Mr John Gearin appeared for the defense and as soon as the court convened the former rose and suggested that, as the justice was an important witness, it might be that he would feel some delicacy in trying the case and called attention to a clause in the statute which expressly grants the justice authority to transfer the case to some other convenient court if he so desired. He wished it understood however that this was merely a suggestion and that if Judge Bybee was willing to try the case it would be perfectly satisfactory to the defense.

Judge Bybee said that though a witness to the crime he felt no partiality in the matter, but that he had not transferred the case because he had conceived that such a course would not be legal. Now that his attention had been called to authority allowing it he would gladly transfer it to the police court. The officers and witnesses were instructed to appear at that place at 1 o'clock.

The case was called in the police court at about half past three o'clock, the prisoner being present.

The attorneys above named appeared for the defense and Hon John F Caples and M L Mulkey Esq for the state.

Attorney for the defendant asked to have the case continued until Monday owing to the lateness of the hour and the question was argued at some length by the attorneys. Judge Adams decided that the trial should proceed.

The first witness called was

DR. C. H. RAFFETY

A physician of East Portland, who after being sworn stated in response to questions that he knew Macdonald and saw him just prior to his death. Was called at about half past three o'clock on the 19th inst to go to Macdonald's home. He went and found Dr Nottage there already examining a wound; they examined it together. They prescribed for him and left agreeing to meet there again at 7 o'clock. At 7 he seemed to be doing well; did not see him again until about daylight the next morning when he was dead. He had examined the body and found two gunshot wounds on it—one about four inches below the left nipple being a mere scratch, the other about eight inches below the left nipple which at first he thought had gone around the bowels, but found it not so. He made a post mortem examination of the body at the coroner's office and found that the ball had entered the bowels and had severed the intestinal canal in three places and had lodged in the skin opposite from where it went in. The cause he said of Macdonald's death was the gunshot wound which passed through the bowels. He could not tell certainly the position of the parties by the wound but thought that Macdonald must have been circling to the right and that the ball had passed obliquely, downward and backward from the left to the right.

Cross examined—The lower wound he said had perforated the bowel.

DR. W. H. WATKINS,

A physician and surgeon of this city was next called and sworn. He said that Macdonald was taken to his office at about 3 o'clock on the 19th inst; said he was wounded; that he examined his body and found two wounds—one superficial about four inches below the left nipple and another about four inches lower; tried to probe the lower wound but was not able to follow it through; he thought that it had entered the abdomen. He saw Macdonald again that evening at his home in East Portland; did not see him again until after his death. In connection with Dr Raffety had made a post mortem examination of the body at the coroner's office and found that the lower wound penetrated the abdominal walls and had forced through the small bowel across the abdomen and into the large bowel on the right. Macdonald's death was caused by the penetration of the bowel.

Cross examined.—Death came unusually quick for such a wound; found on the post mortem examination that the bowels had been cut several times, which caused great hemorrhage. He had hardly expected death to result so soon as it did but was not much surprised to hear that Macdonald was dead. A wound of that kind almost always produced pain. Macdonald complained of pain. A man wounded in that way would under ordinary conditions know it. It was not unusual for men to be wounded, especially on the battle field, and not know it for a time.

JOHN CATLIN,

A lawyer of this city, was next called and sworn. He knew the defendant and saw him at the corner of First and Stark streets on the afternoon of the 19th; there seemed to be some trouble between him and another man whom witness afterwards learned to be Macdonald; was standing on First street just south of the Gem saloon at the time; the men were clinched when witness first saw them; they moved and fell. Macdonald seemed to have his arms around Mercer; witness did not see Mercer's arms; they fell with Mercer partly underneath; saw Macdonald's hand near Mercer's face and thought that he was going to gouge Mercer's eye out, but he did not and his hand slipped down. Mercer slipped out, raised up and drew a pistol and while Macdonald was partly stooped on his hands and knees placed it near the center of his back, but it seemed to catch and did not fire; after that they changed positions; witness then saw Mercer strike at Macdonald's head with his revolver and saw him shoot after they both had risen and were facing each other; saw no more blows.

Cross examined—Thought Macdonald was trying to gouge Mercer's eye out but his hand was open and spread out. Macdonald seemed to have his arms about Mercer's shoulders. Macdonald was heavier but witness thought no taller than Mercer.

R. E. BYBEE

On being sworn testified as follows: I know the defendant. I saw him on the 19th standing in the doorway of O'Brien's cigar store. I saw Macdonald there at the same time. Mr Nottner, Mr Bellinger and myself were standing at the corner in front of the store; we had just stepped in and got some cigars; as we came out Mercer stood in the doorway; we were engaged in conversation when I saw Macdonald crossing the street; he came diagonally across the street from O'Neill's store; when he came up I thought he intended to pass; he stopped however in front of Mercer and asked him if he was responsible for a certain article which had appeared reflecting on his wife. Mercer at first did not claim the authorship or deny it; at length he said "Well I suppose I am responsible." Macdonald then said that he thought it was very contemptible to bring his family affairs in that way before the public. Mercer then said that he had no explanation to make; some other conversation followed when Macdonald said that the person who did write the article in question was a mean dirty snipe. Mercer merely replied, "That's all right." Macdonald asked him if he would retract what he had written. Mercer replied that he had no retraction to make; he added that he had said nothing about Macdonald's wife; some other conversation ensued when Mercer said "Oh I know you; you are a coward." Macdonald said "I could spit in your face. I could——." Mercer said "You had better try it." Up to this time the men kept getting more and more excited and the conversation grew louder. [The witness then showed the court the positions of Mercer and Macdonald.] Some one made the remark that there was going to be a row, but I said, "Let us go, they won't fight; they are talking too long." When Macdonald first came up to Mercer he stood with his thumbs in the arm holes of his vest. As he became more excited he took his hands down and began to shake his finger before Mercer's face. I heard Mercer say "Keep your finger out of my face." All the time the conversation was going on Mercer stood in the door and had his right hand in his coat pocket. Macdonald kept his eye on Mercer's hand all the time. Mercer made some movement with his right hand, when Macdonald threw his arms around him. I could not say positively that Mercer started to draw; his arm twitched and he moved a little back. After they clinched they scuffled about 15 feet when both fell. Macdonald was on top. Macdonald's head was about two feet and a half below Mercer's; most of Mercer's body was not under Macdonald when they fell. I saw Macdonald put one hand on Mercer's face; he reached up with the other and made a grab at his throat and tore off Mercer's necktie. The men struggled a moment, when Mercer tore himself loose. Both men then started to get up. Mercer was quick and wiry and rose instantly to his feet. Macdonald was still on his hands and feet. Mercer drew his pistol from his pocket as he was getting up and fired at Macdonald. Mercer was standing almost over him when he fired the first shot; his pistol was close to Macdonald's back. Macdonald staggered to his feet when Mercer fired the second time; the latter was standing behind him. The men changed positions a little and Mercer fired two more shots. Macdonald moved a little back toward the corner; he did not exactly retreat. Mercer followed him and struck him over the head with the pistol. Macdonald seemed bewildered like after the first shot and moved confusedly around; he did not seem to hardly know what he was doing; after Mercer hit him on the head Macdonald drew his pistol. Mercer started to run across the street toward Delashmutt & Oatman's office; saw Macdonald fire; he was in a squatting posture; at first shot saw Mercer fall; Macdonald fired again and sitting down on sidewalk fired two more shots. Mercer after he fell, scrambled up and started down First street; he moved in a circular direction and reaching the sidewalk dodged into a saloon.

Mercer was following Macdonald when he fired last two shots; did not see any blow struck except by Mercer. Macdonald did not draw his pistol until after the four shots had been fired by Mercer and he had been struck over the head; did not notice the position of Mercer's hands during the struggle; think he did not take his right hand from his coat pocket until after they fell; both men fell apart and when rising were clear of each other.

Cross examination—When Mercer fired first shot he was standing almost erect; was not more than two feet from Macdonald; held his pistol close to Macdonald's back; muzzle was only a few inches from his back, about the middle of his body. When the conversation first commenced I was standing not more than two feet from them. Mercer said nothing to attract Macdonald's attention when latter came along. Macdonald began the conversation; he did not use any abusive language at first. Mercer did not say anything, only in response to what Macdonald said.

I arrested Macdonald immediately after the shooting. He said "That's all right," and handed me his pistol. I think he also handed me two cravats. I said to him "Are you hurt?" He said "No, I think not; if I am hurt I do not know it." I said "Yes you are, but how bad I cannot tell." Just then Mr Hicks came up. I pulled up one side of Macdonald's vest and saw a spot of blood on his shirt. I told Hicks to take him to a doctor at once and if he was not much hurt to bring him around to my office. Just then a hack drove up and Hicks and Macdonald got in and went down street. Mercer came out of the saloon soon after I arrested Macdonald and gave himself up.

ARTHUR WILSON

Was called and testified: I saw the [illegible]. I was walking up First street, when I saw Mercer standing in the door of O'Brien's cigar store; saw Macdonald coming across the street from O'Neill's store toward Mercer. I did not hear any conversation between the two men; saw them standing close together talking; both appeared excited. Macdonald had his thumbs in the arm holes of his vest when he first came up. Mercer had his right hand in his coat pocket. I next saw them scuffling; both fell on the sidewalk. Macdonald was on top. After struggling for a moment saw Mercer rise and saw a pistol in his hands; saw Macdonald on the sidewalk in the act of getting up. Mercer had his left hand on the back of Macdonald's neck as if to hold him down and with his right hand he shot him in the back; muzzle of the pistol was almost against Macdonald's back when he fired. Mercer fired four shots at Macdonald; after Mercer fired the second shot Macdonald seemed to go toward the corner and Mercer followed him and fired two more shots at him. I next saw Macdonald on his knees with his pistol in his hand shooting at Mercer; it was after four shots had been fired before Macdonald drew his pistol. I did not see Mercer strike Macdonald over the head; during the scuffle Mercer had his right hand in his coat pocket and after he fell there was very little time intervening between the shots fired by Mercer. I saw Macdonald's hand on Mercer's face when they were both down. I did not see Macdonald draw his pistol; saw him when he was shooting. Mercer was very close to Macdonald when he fired the first and second shot. [Witness described to the court the positions of the men: Macdonald on the sidewalk on his hands and knees and Mercer standing over him when he fired the first shot.] Mercer had his left hand on Macdonald's neck and held his pistol in his right. Mercer's pistol was against Macdonald's back, only a few inches from the body when he shot. I did not hear any of the conversation which was held between the men. I was standing about the middle of the Stark street crossing. I saw Macdonald when he was coming up Stark street toward First; saw the men when they clinched; saw Macdonald when he threw his arms around Mercer's body. I was walking at the usual gait when I saw Macdonald coming; I stopped as I expected to see a difficulty.

C. B. BELLINGER

On being sworn testified: I know Mercer. I know Macdonald by sight only. I saw the difficulty which occurred at the corner of Stark and First streets on the 19th. I was in O'Brien's cigar store with Nottner and Bybee. In coming out I noticed Mercer standing there. We engaged in conversation. Macdonald came up and inquired of Mercer if he was the author of that article. "I suppose I am," said Mercer. Macdonald referred to an article relative to his wife. Mercer denied it. Macdonald said he had [illegible]; a good deal of conversation followed. Macdonald asked Mercer to retract. Mercer said he had nothing to retract. Macdonald said "what are you going to do about it." Mercer said nothing. Macdonald gesturing in Mercer's face said "I would like to spit in your face," etc.; much more of the same conversation followed. I turned round. Mr Catlin and Dilg came up. Mercer was in the doorway with his right hand in his right coat pocket. Macdonald stood with his thumbs in his vest arm holes. I looked at Mercer's hand and pocket, so did Macdonald. I inferred he had a pistol. I turned to shake hands with Catlin and Dilg; upon turning round I saw Macdonald strike at or grab at Mercer, couldn't say which; the parties grappled by Macdonald sort of embracing Mercer and scuffled down the sidewalk. I couldn't see Mercer very well; they fell on the walk, Macdonald on the top. Mercer got over on top. Macdonald might have been on his hands and knees. I saw Mercer's right hand with a pistol close to Macdonald's body. Mercer fired another shot while Macdonald was struggling to his feet; the parties got to their feet and Macdonald retreated toward Ladd's Bank, followed by Mercer; after the fourth shot Mercer struck him over the head with the pistol. I next saw Macdonald with a pistol in a stooping posture; during the struggle I heard no conversation.

Cross examined—After the scuffle it seemed to me like some time before it was over. I did not see Macdonald draw his pistol. Mercer's pistol was within four inches of Macdonald's body I should think, on the first fire and not more than six at the farthest. I cannot tell which shot proved fatal. Saw Macdonald nearly prostrate on the sidewalk and Mercer's pistol near the middle of his body. The first I saw of Macdonald was when he came up to Mercer; didn't see Mercer put his hand in his pocket when Macdonald asked him if he was responsible for the article. Mercer said "I suppose I am." Mercer denied that the article reflected on Macdonald's wife. Macdonald's voice was not loud but his excitement increased as they talked. Mercer denied he had used his wife's name in any way.

Court adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

PUBLIC OPINION.

[From the Sunday Welcome.]

As according to the evidence of bystanders there was no justification for the killing of Macdonald there is an intense feeling against Mercer in this community and we have the first one to converse with who expresses the remotest sympathy with him. It is bad enough to pry into a man's family troubles and to be used as a tool for maligning him without carrying a concealed weapon to rob him of his life. * * * The fellow whom Macdonald had reason to believe had invaded the sacredness of his household affairs is one known as J K Mercer, a man whose name seldom comes up before the public unless coupled with some disreputable affair.

[From the Sunday Call, East Portland.]

It is harrowing to deal in details after the deed is done. Poor Macdonald died early the next morning leaving a young widow and child to mourn his untimely end. The coroner's jury could but find a verdict of murder and the examination of the assassin now under way reveals out of plain evidence his guilt.

(Letter from M J Gleason in the Standard.)

I have no vicious feeling in my heart against any human being, and I make this statement in the beginning so that it cannot be said that I speak or write through prejudice or malice. But I will say that I had tears drawn from my eyes when I met the poor forlorn widow of the murdered Macdonald. What a sad picture the widow and the orphan engaged in the settlement of their little worldly affairs preparatory to taking the murdered and butchered body of the husband and father so lately in the prime and vigor of manhood to California. And I must here say that Mr Macdonald during his sojourn among us has made numerous friends among the business men of this city, men who to-day mourn his loss, men who feel the bitter pang of sorrow which pierces the heart of his fatherless family, men who feel the cause and who can place it of his tragical fate. * * * * The vile sheet has become such a prostitute that it is ready and willing to publish any filthy matter as all such agrees best with the depraved moral tastes of its managers and editors. That the poor murdered man was a gentleman few if any of his personal acquaintances will dispute; that his murderer is a man without one redeeming quality in his character few who know him will deny. But fact is to make the matter short let the people of Portland give the genus hoodlum, whether large or small, to know that full and complete justice will be done them and that those unsavory characters must depart hence to some more favorable clime where they can give full vent to their depraved tastes and fiendish passions.

Liver is King.

The Liver is the imperial organ of the whole human system, as it controls the life, health and happiness of man. When it is disturbed in its proper action all kinds of ailments are the natural result. The digestion of food, the movement of the heart and blood, the action of the brain and nervous system are all immediately connected with the workings of the Liver. It has been successfully proved that Green's August Flower is unequalled in curing all persons afflicted with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint and all the innumerable symptoms that result from an unhealthy condition of the Liver and Stomach. Sample bottles to try 10 cents. Positively sold in all towns on the Western Continent. Three doses will prove that it is just what you want.

Dr Mintie's Vegetable Nephreticum

Does it cure all? No! It is intended for diseases of the Kidney and Bladder. Second: The combination is the result of large experience and careful study both of the organs and their diseases. Third: The best materials (which are purely vegetable) are selected and used in its manufacture. NOTES FROM SEATTLE

Our correspondent sends the following notes from Seattle, under date of Friday, Sept. 27th:

The past few days have been crowded with important events.

Mr [illegible] assisted by [illegible] [illegible] of photographic science.

The Grand Lodge of Good Templars for Washington territory held [illegible] convention here in session yesterday and [illegible] doing a large amount of business.

The [illegible], the largest and best [illegible] that ever visited this port, Captain Thorndyke, is discharging ballast and will load with coal for San Francisco. She will carry [illegible] 0 tons coal.

The south end of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] principal contractors.

A new cemetery three miles north of the city has been laid out by the Odd Fellows lodge of Seattle. This new cemetery will be greatly beautified and made a desirable place for the repose of loved ones in death.

Hon O Jacobs, delegate to congress, gave a popular address at Yesler's Hall on Tuesday evening last concerning railroad affairs. He complimented Oregon highly for looking after her own interests in these matters.

The visit of Capt Blair from San Francisco has been signalized by the removal of the old and tried employes of the coal company and the introduction of new ones who will doubtless prove equally efficient and faithful.

A valuable barn belonging to Ex Mayor Jatzert was destroyed by fire on Monday night last. A valuable horse, carriage, phaeton, harness and quantity of grain and hay were all consumed. Loss $2 000. No insurance.

The Territorial University, President A J Anderson, never had a brighter outlook than now. The students as a company will compare favorably as to intellectual capacity and studious habits with those of any other institution.

Messrs Leary & Watson have gone extensively into the fish business and are daily putting up in barrels about three hundred salmon of the choice silver side variety. The salmon are caught by Indians with hook and line and seine.

Dense fog and smoke still hang gloomily over all our lands and views, but don't prevent our hardy adventurers from finding gold in paying quantities on the Skikomish river and rich tracts of land unsettled along the head waters of Squak creek.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

I cannot but regard the discovery of Fellows' Hypophosphites as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it myself, and also recommend it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit.

In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipient consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility, in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy.

J. McMURRAY,
Newport, N. S., Methodist Minister.

The St. John Telegraph says: "The invention of Fellows' Hypophosphites has become one of the valuable industries of the country, unique of its kind, and a credit to the Dominion of Canada."

Power of Speaking Restored.

NEWASH, Ont., D. C., March 20, 1870.

Two months ago my son lost his voice. None of the physicians could do him any good. I obtained a bottle of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and strange to say, my son's voice was restored two hours after taking the second dose.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Difficult Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease, in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically, he has restored them to health and happiness, for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases: Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself. Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, including Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood. In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success, not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of, and never fails to give relief at once, and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints, and understands their delicate and refined organization, as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health.

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE

over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success.

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally, and will forward the proper medicines, or instruments, to any part of the country, with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions, must contain two postage stamps.

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify.

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so-called Doctors, through pretended friendship for the patients. Look out for them; they are knaves, prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M. BRENAN, the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door.

BEAUTY:

OR, THE

Secret of a Fair Face.

An Item of Interest to Every Lady who Desires to be More Beautiful than she now is.

Unfortunately not one woman in a hundred, subjected to the whims of an American climate, possesses that basis and starting point of real beauty—a pure and clear complexion. What nature has thus denied, art must be called upon to furnish. It can be done; it is done daily. Prof. W. E. Hagan placed beauty within the reach of every unblessed daughter of Eve when he discovered that surprising article known in fashionable circles as the true secret of beauty, and called

MAGNOLIA BALM

The MAGNOLIA BALM is a sure device for creating a pure and blooming complexion. It conceals all natural blemishes in the most surprising and effective manner. It removes all roughness, eruptions, redness, blotches, freckles, and tan with magical power. It drives away all evidence of fatigue and excitement. It makes the plainest face beautiful. It gives the complexion a dazzling purity and makes the neck, face, and arms appear graceful, rotund and plump. It makes a matron of 35 or 40 look not more than 20 years old, and changes the rustic maiden into a cultivated city belle. The Magnolia Balm removes all blemishes and conceals every drawback to beauty; and, while it is as harmless as water, it is so life-like in its effects that the closest observer cannot detect its use. Ladies who want to make themselves attractive can make an absolute certainty of it by using HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM, and we know of no other way. It is the cheapest preparation in the world, all things considered, and may be had at any drug store.

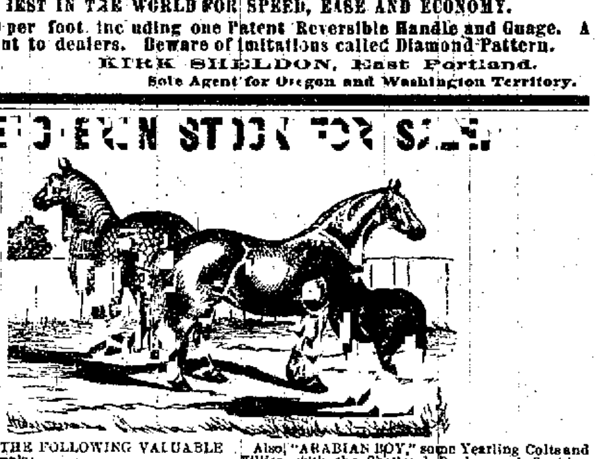
PERCHERON STOCK FOR SALE.



I WILL SELL THE FOLLOWING VALUABLE Breeding Animals:

PRIDE OF PERCHE or GEN. FLEURY, DOLL, WHITEROSE, TEMPEST, these are all full bloods, JENNIE a fifteen sixteenth blood. Doll has been bred to "Arabian Boy," the other three to Gen. Fleury. All appear to be in foal, and have proven No. 1 brood mares.

JOSIE, a yearling filly by Gen. Fleury, dam Jennie. This filly will be enrolled in the forthcoming Percheron-Norman Stud Book, having five crosses from Percheron sires.

ELLA, a ⅞ yearling filly, by Gen Fleury, dam Maggie

The above seven horses are the most valuable breeding animals of this Stock ever offered for sale on this coast, and will be a valuable acquisition to any section they may be located in.

I would prefer to sell the lot together.

I will have part of the above number at the coming State Fair.

Also, "ARABIAN BOY," some Yearling Colts and Fillies, with the Shetland Ponies, and Sucking Shetland filly "Minnie."

It is 27 years since the Percheron stock was introduced in Ohio. The Secretary of the Ohio Board of Agriculture J. H. Klippart, Esq., publishes in his recent annual report, replies received from the various counties in the State, to the following questions: Have the Percheron horses been introduced in your county? Do they give general satisfaction? To the first, 68 counties answer Yes. To the second 59 answer Yes, and 9 answered No. And from the same report the average price of good geldings and mares for farm use were higher in Union county, where they were first imported, than any other county in the State. This certainly speaks well for the Percherons. Every horseman knows that a large well formed horse will always bring a good price in any market.
